Two United States Marshals were placed on board the vessellist night, as it was reported that she was about to sall without getting her clearance papers. Deputy Surveyor John Collins, who went out to the steamer with the men, said that she had steam up, and that her anchor chains were ready to be snapped at a moment's notice.

United States Commissioner Alexander declined to hold Gonzhies, the vessel's owner, yesterday, and it required only clearance papers from the Custom-House for the South Portland to sail as a merchant vessel of the United States.

When he heard the Court's decision the captain burried to the Custom-House for his clearance. He got there ten minutes before the time for closing. A small technicality prevented him from getting the papers yesterday, and he was told to call this morning. In the meantime the Venezuelan Government had asked to have the clearance papers stoped until the vessel could be libeled and a more thorough examination had. Therefore, when the captain applied for his papers at the Custom-House this morning he was told that he would have to wait until the Washington authorities had received the Court's formal release.

He Defeats the Dwyer Colt. Whose Backers Lose Heavily.

The talent fared well at Gravesend yester day. Four choices reached the finish in front and though these were at short odds the plun-gers managed to pass a very fair day. The opening event was the test betting race of the day. Rosa II. might be considered the real favorite, though the shortest price was quoted against Nero. The latter was at ten's when the horses went to the post and walle he was kicking up monkey-shines at the start, his party slipped in and distribu big roll of $100 bills. The onslaught was no big roll of $100 bills. The constangate was sudden that the bookies got scared and rubbed to a shorter price than was really justified. Rosa II had a large public fellowing, and Adelbert, with Tarni up, was also strongly supported. Tarni best the fing with Adelbert and made the running until within Adelbert and made the running until with tifty yards of the wire. There Blake strong challenged him with St. Fellx, and Taral de-voted his energies to beating the son of St. voted his energies to beating the son of St. Haise. Doggett came out of the banch with Rosa H. and, catching Adelbert, was on the post by a head. Tarai claimed that Rosa H. bumped into Adelbert, and interfered with his chances, but the judges who acted as stowards failed to see it and would allow no foul. Nero was a good fourth. Delayrian ran prominently for five farings, and is on the improve. He will do to bet on very good race. White Rose's chances were killed by getting away poorly and running on the outside of her field the entire distance. Lovelace ran poorly and so did Rival. The latter is not ready yet.

Sam Weller, on public form, looked one of the best things of the day. In the Apax-Sir Francis race he showed a great turn of speed, and was only besten a head for third place by Corduroy. With the weight off and half furiong less to go the talent and handless-pers alike figured him as a cinch, and so it proved. He went off like a builet, opened up pers alike figured him as a cinch, and so it proved. He went out like to proved up a gap of five lengths and was hever beaded, winning in a caster. Courtship, who form said should run second, daished in that position. Fitzsimmons, formerly the Tourmailine coit, was a poor third. This youngster is named after bob Fitzsimmons, the Australian puglist. He was on a visit to the Haggin farm one day and Supt. Mackey asked aim to select the two-year-old which he wished named after him. Bob picked out the Tourmailine coit, but so far the youngster has not shown himself worthy to carry the name of a champion. The Doctor ran poorly. It is said that he is beginning to throw a spiint. It probably troubled him yesterday. Bostor should treat his ailment at once. Prince imports, Ranbow and Hugh Penny ran like a trio of yailer dogs.

Lord Motley finally managed to win a race. This was not because he was extra good, but because the field posted against him was extraordinarily bad. Anyhow he can be entalogued as a winner. The Pop ran wait for six furiongs and then went to pieces so fast that it was a question as to whether or no Littlefield wouldn't be compelled to dismount and carry the poor mag home. He struggled on, however, and scentred the place from Algoma. Bitzard also walked ground.

The Laura Gould colt was rightly a 2 to 5 chance in the fourth race, and he won very easily. In addition to the Neptune Stakes he also secured a name. Kinglet. Middleton was ridden by young Covington, and well the second paragraph of Rule 1. Regulations of the course, prohibits the writer from saying more than his riding was a great piece of work. Whether bad or good the readers will have to guess. Procida, who generally stops at haif a mile, astonished every one by hanging on gamely and getting thru place. Panay will do to keep an eye on.
